Fun Frog Fact

The bullfrog is the largest true frog in North America; weighing up to 1.2 lbs and as long as 18 in.

Got Algae?

In the hot summer months algae is usually a sign of an imbalanced pond. It is completely natural and you will never eliminate, you can control it! Algae needs the same things all of your other plants need to survive: sunshine and nutrients. So plant away! The more aquatic plants you have competing for those things the better. Try to have about 40% of your pond's surface covered with plants like lilies or floating hyacinths. They will use the nutrients and deprive algae of much needed sunlight.

Overfeeding your fish can also cause an unexpected algae bloom. Remember the more they eat the more they waste!! Feed your fish only what they will eat in 5 minutes and only 1 time per day!

Going on Vacation? Here are a Few Tips:

- 1 Top off the water level in your pond.
- 2 Having a pond sitter is always a good idea!
- 3 Do not worry that your fish won't have enough to eat! They're always eating!
- 4 If you're prone to predators in your area, a fish cave or pond net is a good idea.
- 5 Have a great time!!
